

2010 SAXONWOLD PEOPLE

R2450.00

Photography

People, whether they be friends, family, adults or children are one of the most photographed of all subjects, but they can often be incredibly difficult to capture properly.

Most of us pick up a camera for the first time because of our desire to capture memories of the people in our lives - babies, children, loved ones or even strangers that pass us by. There are a number of easy techniques that we can apply to help us successfully capture their likeness, their personality and their character.

On this course you will learn all you need to know to be able to capture people in their everyday surroundings – indoors or outdoors. Each week you walk away with practical knowledge that you can easily apply to everyday situations. This 3 week course runs for one evening a week with workshops that help you understand and put into practice the techniques learnt. You are required to complete assignments during the course.
